

The Department of Educational Studies has an opening for an instructor to teach EDUC 500 (Research Methodology in Education) during Summer Term 1 (May 14-June 22, 2012). The class will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays, 4.30-7.30 p.m. in Scarfe 201.

This course is an overview of methodological approaches to research in education. It surveys research issues and techniques in a manner intended to assist the student in selecting a limited number of research methods and strategies for more intensive study. This course is intended to familiarize students with methods for the conduct of research in education; describe resources for the conduct of research; offer student assignments that take into account their personal research interests.

We will be requiring both quantitative and qualitative methodologists, therefore applicants should mention their quantitative or qualitative backgrounds and experience.

To be eligible to teach this course, applicants must hold a doctoral degree (or have at least passed doctoral comprehensive exams) in the relevant discipline.

Course instructor duties may include teaching; holding regular office hours; marking assignments and exams; reporting grades and attending orientation meetings as well as follow-up sessions, where applicable.

Application Procedure

Letters of application should contain the following items: the Department Sessional application form, a current CV, the Post Secondary Teaching Experience Form and teaching evaluations if available. New applicants should also include the names, e-mail addresses and phone numbers of three referees. Forms are obtainable from the department website at <http://edst.educ.ubc.ca/jobs>

All positions are subject to enrollment minimums and budgetary approval, and are governed by UBC's "Agreement on Conditions of Appointment for Sessional and Part-time Faculty Members."
